Pent Up! is a high-energy rock band formed in 2021 amidst the boredom and isolation of the COVID-19 pandemic. While the world was ground to a halt, drummer Nate Oelrich and guitarist Brendan Honeycutt began jamming in a basement and soon thereafter tapped bassist Jay Barrett to round out the lineup. The newly christened Pent Up! started their first year writing songs, releasing music, and blowing the roof off of every Seattle area club that would have them. As 2022 came to a close guitarist Arcadio Rodriguez came aboard, adding a new melodic dimension to the band's fiery live energy.

Pent Up! combines driving rhythms and catchy songcraft with punk energy and abandon, where hints of bands like Dinosaur Jr., Foo Fighters, and Social Distortion mix with indie rock and pop. Their songs contain lyrics aimed at connecting with the audience on a personal level, to hit in the head as well as the heart.

In March of 2022, the band released their first single, "Self-Titled", off their debut EP, "Pretty Good". For the next single (and going forward) they flexed their DIY muscles by self-producing "The End", b/w a cover of The Cure's "Just Like Heaven". On stage the band found plenty of success, opening for national (Tantric) and international (Australia's Big League) touring acts, as well as successfully headlining an epic show at the High Dive in Fremont.

In 2023, Pent Up! seeks to go even bigger, better, and bolder with numerous releases planned, and plenty of live performances to help spread their brand of rambunctious rock to fans new and old. This year is a rocking party, and Pent Up! is ready to bring the house down.
